

Making a structural cross section V: a bigger picture

The previous four pages in this series looked at how to hang well logs on the datum of a cross section to make a structural cross section. With this page we expand our scale, with the assumption that we can put five wells on a cross section. The next four pages will make a structural interpretation – have any suggestions?

